About the Network

Computer Use in Social Services (CUSS) Network is a nonprofit association of professionals interested in exchanging information and experiences on using computers in the social services. Members participate in the Network by:

- Sending materials for the CUSSN Newsletter, such as: (1) member needs, interests, hardware/software use, activities, etc.; (2) information on resources; and (3) longer reports/articles on conferences, surveys, vendor products, ideas, experiences, computer applications, and events.
- Participating in the skills bank, software clearinghouse and SIGs.
- Distributing Newsletters to friends and at workshops and conferences. If you're attending a conference where participants may be interested in the CUSSN, let me know and I will send newsletters to distribute or place on a resource table.
- Referring vendors. If you think a vendor/consultant could benefit by exposure to CUSSN members, tell them, so they can advertise their services and products in the CUSSN Newsletter.
- Holding local CUSSN meetings. Local meetings in Dallas/Ft. Worth, Chicago and Baltimore have been successful. For those in a foreign country, Floyd Bolitho's (see back cover) work in Australia offers a model to follow.

The CUSSN Newsletter is published approximately 4 times a year and is sent free to all network members. Institutional and library subscriptions are available for $15 a year. For overseas air mail, add an additional $5 for postage. All prices are in U.S. dollars. Back issues of the newsletter are available for $2.50 each. Volume 1 has 2 issues; The newsletter is edited by Dick Schoech.

The CUSSN Skills Bank allows members to locate or share specific knowledge, skills and experiences. At present the skills bank permits searches by state or geographic area, by information systems experience and by application, all for the total cost of providing information about yourself. Contact Gunther R. Geiss, Adelphi U., School of Social Work, Garden City, NY 11530, (516) 288-7915

The CUSSN Software Clearinghouse offers a computerized inventory of commercial and public domain available human service software, a software review file, and a software exchange. For more information, write Walter LaMendola, Professor, School of Social Work, U. of Denver, Denver, CO 80208

Special Interest Group (SIGs) are subgroups of network members where significant networking is occurring on a special topic.

Educators SIG, write Wallace Gingerich, School of Social Welfare, U of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, Milwaukee, WI 53201.

THE SOFTWARE CLEARINGHOUSE

By Walter F. LaMendola, PhD, Professor & Director, Information Technology Center, Graduate School of Social Work, University of Denver, Denver, CO 80208

Dr. LaMendola is the Coordinator of the Software Clearinghouse. The Clearinghouse can be contacted by writing to Dr. LaMendola at the above address. Or, you can telephone 303-871-2886 and ask for Dr. LaMendola or Jo Landstrom. Leave a message if they are unavailable and they will return your call.

The Software Clearinghouse has been nurtured along now for about three years as a voluntary, non-paid effort. At first I was solely responsible for the ideas which drove its development as a usable database. I knew all of the software that was listed. When people telephoned or wrote for information, I was able to either give them the information over the phone or to write back quickly. Fifteen months ago I moved from East Carolina University to the University of Denver to head up a new effort here, called the Information Technology Center. At that point I could no longer afford the luxury of direct contact with everyone who inquired. I found myself getting further and further behind both in maintaining a growing database and responding to inquiries. Last year, Dennis Molln, Carolyn Hughes, and Ellen Stein, along with Carol Maynard and Charles Sauro — all dedicated students and committed to our efforts — attempted to keep the ship afloat. They worked hard and did their part, but this kind of a job could not be done by voluntary efforts alone. This Fall the School of Social Work hired an Assistant for me, Jo Landstrom. She is a rare find in social work, a professional social worker who is also a successful businesswoman and knowledgeable computer user. Our work together has begun to bring a fine order to the Clearinghouse. She has freed me to do more technical work while she and five students worked on the content, capacity, and responsiveness of the Clearinghouse. Those five students — Carol Maynard, Roy Mix, Ann Walecka, Sandy Taylor, and Charles Sauro — have continued to make a dedicated effort to the Clearinghouse. They deserve recognition and thanks from all of us for their contribution.

The Clearinghouse now has well over a thousand pieces of software in its grip. We have complete information on about half of the pieces, and we have been able to get partial information on about two hundred others. What do we consider to be complete information? We are interested in providing anyone who inquires with the following information:

- 1) the title and author of the software;
- 2) the vendor and how to get in touch with them;
- 3) the target group of users for the software;
- 4) the human service delivery problem the software intends to solve, or the type of client problem the software was designed to address;
- 5) the hardware, operating systems, languages, or other requirements the potential user needs to meet to use the software;
- 6) the reviews or comments of others who have used the software.

I have found that we can be fairly successful in providing lead information of the type mentioned above. But the information given to us is not always accurate. For example, because we are not given working copies of all of the software, we must rely on advertising or brochures for information. These can be inaccurate or misleading. We also attempt to get cost information, but, believe it or not, many vendors will only give us approximations! Everyone who uses us should be aware of the fact that we do not guarantee the quality of the software or the validity of claims made in its behalf. It would help us tremendously if people would feedback results of their interactions with vendors or software use experiences. Those can be shared with others when they make Clearinghouse inquiries.

There are a number of problems which face the human services in terms of software development, and I would like to review for you those which have influenced me in the development of the Clearinghouse:

- There is a great deal of software development going on in the human services.
- There is very little training in software development going on in the human services.
- There is no distribution network for human service software.
- There is no evaluation network or recognition system for human service software.

The Clearinghouse can help focus human service software developers on the product line; that is, we can share what has been developed in an area to avoid reinventing the wheel and to familiarize developers with the departure point for their endeavors. The Clearinghouse can allow potential software developers and everyday hackers to hock their hacked wares and to contact others of the same bent. The Clearinghouse is a focal point for the development of a distribution network for human service software. We do this well already. And, as more and more vendors give us demos that we can share with others — this certainly is the trend — we can play an even larger role as an initial match-maker between vendor and potential user. Finally, as you use us we hope that you will share your reactions to software with us so that we can share those with others. This is a surprisingly effective manner in which to evaluate software. It is also a good method for developing a system of recognizing good pieces of software.

This issue contains a representative sampling of our listings. Use it in good health. Help me to continue the development of the Clearinghouse in return. Use the Clearinghouse. Make me aware of software developed in the human services for human service work by writing, phoning, or sending me a message electronically via FIDO. Send me your reactions to software. Put those up on FIDONET if you are able to do so. I will work to make the Clearinghouse accessible through FIDONET in the near future. But, regardless of how you do it, communicate. Let's make this a true network!

NEEDED SOFTWARE REVIEWERS

The Software Clearinghouse need to improve its listing of persons who are interested in reviewing software. If you would like to become a reviewer of software in your specialty area, send you name, address, specialty areas, hardware configurations to which you have access, and any other pertinent information to:
